Salt Lake City, March 8.—A stranger in a strange land, I had been taking in the sights of the town. I had seen the Temple, I had visited the Tabernacle and listened to the soul inspiring strains of that grand organ, and I had seen all the other sights which the beautiful city of Salt Lake has to offer its visitors, so I went back to the hotel. But after supper the beauty of the night enticed me, and I went by way up the hill until I came to an unpretentious building from which came the sounds of music; and which I learned was the Eighteenth Ward hall.

Upon inquiry I was told that I might enter, so I went, and what a sight met my eyes. In the middle of the floor stood a handsome young man in the white and blue dress of a French soldier. A young man of about fourteen, with powdered hair and a dress of about twenty years ago. Young girls with corkscrew curls and the dresses of their grandmothers. Colonial belles and Puritan maidens danced around the room, for it was an old-fashioned character ball. But the most interesting figure in the room to me was the "Marguerite" of the evening. As a student of Goethe and an admirer of that perfect creation of his, I stood and tried to compare this striving to live their religion and the bishopric are trying to get an example before the members of the ward to attend to their duties in the Church.

Frederick W. Schoenfeld, bishop of the Brighton ward, was next called on to make a report of his ward. He stated that conditions in his ward were similar to those in the ward just represented. The people of his ward, he said, were much scattered, but still they had their laborers so organized that they were brought together. They are all united in their efforts in doing good and for the advancement of the Gospel.

The Bishop of Pleasant Green ward was not present when called for, but came in later and that ward was not reported owing to that fact.

Elder Lewis M. Cannon was called upon to represent the Cannon ward. He reported that ward to be progressing very continuing to increase in numbers.

President Angus M. Cannon then reported the work of the kindergarten associations, as Georgiana Fox Young was unable to attend this morning.

The reports of the various organizations were then read by Elder Joseph E. Taylor with the exception of the Mutual Improvement association which had not sent in any report, and was not reported.

Bishop Robert T. Burton was the next speaker who spoke of the necessity of members in the Church on removing from one ward to another to take a recommendation with them. He also made reference to the collection of fast offerings and said there should be an awakening among the different stakes in this duty; that the people might receive the benefits of paying this offering.

Apostle Cowley was the closing speaker and made a few remarks endorsing what had been said regarding the importance of taking recommendations when leaving one ward to go into another. He also dwelt upon the principle of paying tithing and said he felt that the Latter-day Saints had, as a whole, very generously come up to the call made by President Snow. The people, he said, could not enjoy the blessings that follow the keeping of this law except they lived up to this principle to the very letter. The Saints have been blessed in their obediency to the law of tithing, and he would be blessed more abundantly in the future by obeying the same.

After singing the hymn "On the mountain tops appearing" the benediction was offered by Elder David L. Davis and the conference adjourned till 2 o'clock this afternoon.
